WHAT WE DO

We edit with an eye to the majority of language and stylistic problems, especially significant ones. In other words, a number of issues may still remain unresolved; some may be a matter of personal preference. Our fees are in line with the SAFREA (South African Freelancers' Association) definitions and pricing guidelines.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

- The process of quoting often begins informally, with a phone call or email query.
- Once you have requested and received a formal quote on our letterhead, please email / contact us to inform us that you accept our fees.
- We generally quote in ZA cents per word (a straightforward unit of measure), subject to seeing the actual document. There is an annual increase towards the end of each year. Graphics et cetera are not included in the wordcount and hence not charged for. Wording of footnotes, tables and text boxes is counted, however.
- The final invoice may vary from the quotation, depending on length of document(s) and/or additional editing services.

- Major formatting of heading levels, ToCs and the like is not included in this price. If such formatting is needed, we outsource the document to an MSWord expert. She and the client negotiate the fee and consult directly with each other.
- We run the most efficient possible business and are a registered CC.
- Therefore, in line with standard good commercial practice, our terms and conditions are a 50 percent deposit, with the balance payable immediately on delivery. This deposit may be waived if payment is guaranteed by a funder such as a university, or if there has been a long-standing relationship with a client.

WHY WE CHARGE AS WE DO

The service we provide is value for money: it is thorough and meticulous. Editing is highly specialised and labour-intensive and a thorough double edit (reading the document at least twice but usually more often, concentrating on different facets) of five A4 pages or about 2000 words takes 45 minutes to an hour. Please note our TAT below.

HOW WE WORK

- We aim at the very best, friendliest, personal service.
- This includes reasonable pricing, in terms of the language profession's guidelines; the best possible quality, thoroughness and consistency.
- We do our best to meet deadlines, but cannot always guarantee this in busy periods.
- PhD-level editing.
- One editor or two co-editors usually work on a document and it is read at least twice.
- We use Track Changes on MSWord 1997-2003, 2007 (Vista), 2010 (Word 7), 2013 (Word 8) or 2016 (Word 10) to make all changes visible.
- To use Track Changes: accept or reject each change individually by hovering on the change (in the text or in the marginal balloon), right-clicking on it and using the submenu which should open. It is possible to accept all changes immediately, but we strongly advise against this as many may need further action.
- We regret that we cannot edit documents in PDF or LaTeX.
- We are able to receive and return very large files using reliable websites.
- TAT (Turn-around Time): To give an idea of typical turn-around time, 40 000 words (about 100 pages) would take us at least seven days to carry out a thorough electronic edit. For example, an article will usually take four to five days, with a maximum of two weeks. A PhD will take four weeks or so. Your accepting or rejecting the suggested changes and answering any queries we raise will take you another day or so. In peak periods (January to April, September to December) these time frames will be much longer – accordingly, please contact us as early as possible. We recommend you make a booking and advise us of delays in advance. Please note that we will not stop editing a document we are already working on if late work from another client arrives.

GUIDELINES FOR OUR ACADEMIC CLIENTS

- We are closed annually from 16 December to 6 January, though we might continue working on documents that have already arrived.
- Office hours are 08:00 to 18:00 SAST / CAT (UTC +2).
- With respect to grammar, layout, punctuation, spelling, style, syntax and usage we focus on the 5 C's: Clarity, Concord, Congruence, Consistency and Correctness.
- Logic (including repetition and adequate links) and minor formatting (e.g., fonts, paragraphing, margins) are checked and suggestions made if needed.

- We make use of a reliable and experienced formatter should you need major formatting (e.g., heading numbering, heading styles, ToCs). Do note that proper formatting takes time, generally a couple of days, and please allow suitable time for this. It is charged separately by the formatter.
- We do not undertake major formatting (e.g., heading styles, ToCs), carry out research or rewrite, though we will make suggestions.
- We do not act as supervisors.
- We only accept work that has already been approved by a supervisor. Although the detection of plagiarism is the client's and supervisor's responsibility, where we do come across it we reserve the right to notify client and supervisor. We shall cease editing and only resume the work if the issue has been addressed by these parties. No monies will be returned.
- If required, we ensure that items in bibliographies are consistent and in line with APA, Chicago, Harvard, or MLA style, provided the client and supervisor have attempted to adhere to these conventions. We do not edit a reference list that is not properly organised.
- We may offer the value-added service of cross-checking that in-text references and items in the reference list correspond exactly. Here, we charge per item. However, we prefer that you undertake this yourself, using free software such as Reciteworks. This is recommended by Professional Editors' Guild members, though we cannot vouch for the results as they are dependent on the client's computer's operating system, internet connectivity and word processing software. Other frequently-used referencing software includes RefWorks and EndNote.
- Please be aware that the editing process often raises additional queries such as clarity, referencing information (e.g., place, publisher, date) et cetera, which will need to be solved by the client. These are usually indicated in comments balloons.
- We warrant that work undertaken will be to the highest possible standard, in line with the guidelines of the South African Translators Institute and the Professional Editors' Guild, provided that we are given adequate time to edit the document properly.

GUIDELINES FOR OUR OTHER CLIENTS

- The above principles apply with suitable amendments to commercial and government work as well.

PAYMENTS

- Payment may be made by direct bank deposit or internet transfer. We prefer the latter. Cash deposits, cheque deposits and payments from non-South African banks cost extra and will be charged for.
- Clients elsewhere than South Africa may use the SWIFT code for payment purposes.
- Urgent work will attract a surcharge.
- By using our services you agree that overdue payments will be subject to legal action in the appropriate Pretoria (City of Tshwane) court and that you will pay costs on an attorney-and-client scale.
- We reserve the right to deliver all or part of an edited document protected by a password which will be provided, or by any alternative method, after full payment is made.

Your use of the Expert English Editors Web Site and any Expert English Editors documents, services or related items or services, constitutes your agreement to all such terms, conditions, and notices. Expert English Editors reserves the right to change any terms, conditions, and notices without prior notice, as and when necessary.
